

I want a credential I can put on my resume after I graduate.

I want a credential that enables me to engage people's best thinking and my own best thinking, too.

I want to learn something that changes people's lives for the better and helps me live a better life, too.

I want a credential that makes me a part of an international movement creating healthier lives and a healthier world.

I want to be an Intrinsic Coach®.

Totally Coached, Inc.

College students in health related programs can learn Intrinsic Coaching® via a reduced student tuition at Totally Coached, Inc. Students can also learn Intrinsic Coaching® as a college accredited course, including from within your higher education institution.

I'm seeing such value in Intrinsic Coaching®. When I'm listening with a spirit of service my inner voice is quieted, and I'm much more attentive. I'm finding myself surprised in conversations. I think I know what someone is going to say, and then that person goes in a completely different direction. The direction they go in is so much more valuable to them than where I wanted to go. From the start I'm intentionally choosing to enter into conversations listening only to what that person has to say. When I'm quiet and really listening, the question is there. Intrinsic Coaching® is showing me that coaching forward is a big deal, and to avoid thinking backward. A lot of people like to go back to the problem, so getting them off of that and having them focus on what they want is fun. I'm able to keep making the choice, guide people through the process, maintain focus on the goals, and listen with a spirit of service. As a result conversations are taking a lot less time, and it's much more fun.
